Preventing sexual image-sharing among 11-13-year-olds

As part of Internet Matters' commitment to ensuring the internet is a safe space for all children, including girls, they have recently conducted research, supported by Nominet, into the prevention of sexual image-sharing among 11-13-year-olds.

Working with panels of young people, parents and professionals, they have co-designed a set of prevention resources, tailored separately for boys and for girls, to deter children from sharing sexual imagery online. They will be launching the findings from this research at a free webinar on Wednesday 8th May 2024 at 12:45pm. To register your place, click here.
